

ABSTRACT

A system and method for syndicating financial obligations, such as loans, leases, letters of credit, lines of credit, factoring arrangements, and so on. The financial obligations may be prospective obligations, i.e., the obligations may not yet be assumed
5 by any party, or be existing obligations, i.e., the obligations may have been already assumed by at least one entity. An example of a prospective financial obligation may be a loan application that has not yet been approved, but that is being syndicated in an effort to approve a portion of the loan application. Syndication partners may be automatically selected and requested to join in a syndication of one or more financial obligations.

20250101